What is Aid and Attendance?

Aid and Attendance (“A&A”) is a monthly pension benefit available to qualifying Veterans and surviving spouses of qualifying Veterans who need the aid and attendance of another person to perform the personal functions required for daily living such as to eat, bathe, dress, undress and administer medication. The following are the maximum monthly A&A amounts currently available:

- Married Couple: $2,984
Both are Veterans who need A&A
- Veteran and Spouse or Dependent: $2,230
Both need A&A
- Veteran: $1,881
- Surviving Spouse of Veteran: $1,209

Who Qualifies for Aid and Attendance?

There are several requirements to obtain A&A, including a service requirement, disability and asset requirement, and income requirement. You must prove that you satisfy these requirements by completing the Veterans Application for Pension or Compensation (“Application”) and filing this Application with the U. S. Department of Veterans Affairs (commonly referred to as the “VA”).

Service Requirement—Must Have Served During War Time

In order to be eligible for A&A, a Veteran does not need to have served overseas, been in combat or have a service-connected disability; however, a Veteran must be honorably discharged and must have served 90 days of active duty with at least one day during a period of War. A surviving spouse of a Veteran who meets these requirements may also be eligible.

Official Declared War Time

The official declared War Time dates as determined by Congress are as follows:

- Mexican Border War: May 9, 1916 – April 5, 1917
- World War I: April 6, 1917 – Nov. 11, 1918
(April 1, 1920 if served in Russia)
- World War II: Dec. 7, 1941 – Dec. 31, 1946
- Korean War: June 27, 1950 – Jan. 31, 1955
- Vietnam War: Aug. 5, 1964 – May 7, 1975
(Feb. 28, 1961 – May 7, 1975 if served in Vietnam)
- Persian Gulf War: Aug. 2, 1990 – undetermined

Disability Requirement

To satisfy the A&A disability requirement, you must be 65 or older and require the aid and attendance of another person to perform the personal functions required for daily living. Examples include the inability to dress or undress, keep oneself clean and presentable, the inability to feed oneself, and the inability to toilet. Other needs include being blind, nearly blind, or bedridden.

Help with these needs may be provided by an assisted living facility, home health aides, nurses and other professionals, a family member other than a spouse, or someone residing with you. The care services provided must be recommended by a licensed health care professional. The VA also requires that there be a Care Contract between the caregiver and the person receiving care. The contract needs to specify the care to be given and the amount to be paid, which must be the going rate for those kinds of services in the community in which the services are provided. We can prepare a Care Contract for you to satisfy this requirement.

Income and Asset Requirement

There are income and asset requirements to receive A&A. Assets owned by either a married couple or a single person must be below $123,600. Income is counted as an asset. Therefore, if your annual income is $20,000 and you have cash assets of $50,000, your asset total is $70,000. Unreimbursed medical expenses can be subtracted from your annual income to determine whether you are eligible for A&A benefits. Assets which are exempt from these requirements include your residence on two acres or less, personal property, and vehicles.

Three Year Lookback Period

The VA now has a three year lookback period for gifting. This means any gifts made within three years of applying for A&A benefits could be assessed a penalty period by the VA before benefits could be received by the claimant. If gifts have already been made and cannot be given back or “cured”, then a penalty will likely be assessed. There are options for gifting prior to the need for benefits which can be discussed on an individual basis with our VA accredited attorney.

Filing A Claim

Filing a claim for A&A is complex and time-consuming. Typically, qualification for A&A involves the reallocation of assets, which will impact Medicaid eligibility. This process should not be attempted without proper legal advice. It may take several months for an A&A Application to be approved by the VA; however, the benefits are paid retroactive to the month following the month in which the Application was led.
